

Your Greater Intelligence and Financial Good That is Yours.mp3

With Asara Lovejoy

Welcome to Access Your Rich Mind for Wild Success Show with Asara Lovejoy.

Speaker, author and worldwide leader in our human potential. By listening to this podcast, you'll discover that you can access your mind in brand new ways, ones that turn your thoughts into your best business partner in six easy steps

You access your genius rich mind. Your great problem solver and new idea generator for wild success. Listen often as Asara and her experts share simple and effective strategies to help you master your mind, change your business and command the lifestyle of your dreams. Make sure to subscribe for free updates on how to command your cash and your success with your rich mind at www.asara.com.

Good morning, everybody.

Today I have been focusing and tuning in on the idea of that greater capacity within us. I've been playing with it and thinking about it, that greater capacity within us is the fundamental power behind the command. That understanding who we are in that greater self is the power behind our ability to manifest through the process of making the command and being able to bring it from the unseen and the UN manifest world into the manifest world.

In teaching The One Command, I think it's important to come into personalizing you in your great ability and your great capacity, and know that it is physical, in that it is a brain frequency. It's an experience of intelligence that is your intelligence that you already have. And that the path of going into that greater self or that greater capacity is the path to being able to experience you in that other dimension of yourself. That is your super intelligence of all that you are. We can name it our soul body, we can name it are higher self, which in a way actually limits it. But if we name it that part of us, that is us outside of our conscious awareness, then you begin to track your self in a greater way.

When we're going into thinking about and playing with creating our experience of what we want from that greater capacity within us, that is us, we begin to focus there. We begin to go up through the command, up into the theta experience, up into making our command and declaring our good and seeing it in that greater capacity within us. And at the same time, keep holding that idea about that part of you that you are not able to know with your intelligence or your brain or even your imagination. That part of you that has a greater good in store for you is guiding you. And it is you. And you are unwinding the programming from this reality of this lifetime, of this limitation. And the way to unwind the limitations is to again, focus on what potential exists or its manifestation and its realization in those higher dimensional vibrations of you.

In other words, trust that you have within you a great plan for your good that you actually have in your DNA and your blueprint within your cellular knowledge and in your etheric body

The field around our body, all of that subtle energy around our body, in all the holographic imagery within us, in the morphogenic field within us, in the subtle force of who we are, is this great wonderment. This great good that is programmed in our essential nature and experienced as life here in the physical body, Rather than living from the physical body with the outside world influences, we are learning to live as spiritual beings and human beings in regulating our energy into new pathways of expression; that we're regulating our energy into our ability to tune into that greater good within us. That is us. And manifest it.

It is a training that teaches us, as we do it, to have more and more evidence that it works. It gets to the point where I, know what I don't know. And I know that much is happening beyond my ability to know what's happening. In other words, you could almost imagine that you have these great worker bees and little elves that are there in your atmosphere that are mechanically creating and manifesting your good for you. And working on it for you all the time, even when you're not working on it for yourself. And that you simply have to become the open vessel to receive that good. And to train and to reorganize the brain, and to begin operating in the portions of your brain that are not programmed in any way to receive this amazing good. In this amazing capacity. In this amazing wealth. Amazing success self. And wonderful relationships with other people and with yourself. And so the picture gets bigger and bigger, the image gets bigger and bigger and bigger of what we're about here, of what we're doing with within ourselves, of how we are shifting and changing that you can come into this peaceful state of love, this peaceful state of compassion, this peaceful state of understanding, your better nature, your greater nature.

There is this consciousness with the desire to know something different in yourself and the desire to know whatever you would want in your faith, a desire to know whatever you would want that nothing is simply in this physical form, that everything is in this expanded energy of subtle energy and more subtle energy and more subtle energy so that the trees have subtle energy of their ethereal body, of their spiritual body, and the plants as well as the animals, so that everything as well as cash, that even cash has their subtle energy bodies that we talk about attracting cash to us and magnetizing cash to us and having conversations with cash and having cash come into our pocket books and responding to us – it is the energy.

It's not responding to us in the material world. It's responding in the energetic world of that place in consciousness where we are more connected than this place here in the frequency of the day to day order of events of our mind, the day to day ordered events of our thinking, of our mind, of our problems, of how we're going about seeing that we're lacking our good.

The habit that we have going down into sadness or grief or disappointment and judging ourselves, that if it didn't work out then you did something wrong or that that there's something wrong with you that you did that made it not turn out instead of seeing life as a process of experience and a process of experimentation, of design, that when you're doing something new, you really don't know, you know, what the leverage piece is. You don't know how to get good results the first time you do something oftentimes. And life then becomes the experience of investigating something new and saying, well, if you're in that higher dimensional reality within yourself of asking for greater guidance, I don't know how I make this experience turn into a benefit for me in my life now, I only know I do and I'm fulfilled rather than going back into dropping into that subconscious programming of saying that we need to be guilty, we need to be ashamed, we need to be angry. We need to judge ourself as not doing it correctly.

What if everything we did was correct? What if getting poor was correct? What if getting rich was correct? What if making a mistake was correct? What if doing it right was correct? What if it's all correct. Right. Right. It is that it's all correct that there is any way that you can make the mistake. We're here having an internal experience when we have an outward experience that isn't getting the results we want. That isn't getting us happiness or joy - that harms us energetically in some way or harms another person in some way, then we want to simply stop doing that. We want to say that was a mistake. That was a mistake in misunderstanding the results. The limitation of our judgment against ourselves, of coming into judging our behavior or our actions as wrong. It's not our actions and it's not our experiences causing us harm. It is the decision about the meaning of the experience. Such as, see here I am again. Look, I failed. I'm used to this. I'm used to that failed place. I'm used to that depressed peace. I'm used to that sense of, oh, gosh, it's not going right. Because that is familiar.

We said we're overcoming something, really deep. You know, we're working through something, changing something that is so familiar. It's like a reminder that we need to focus on that greater good. To pull ourselves up into that greater capacity and to trust that greater good within us is guiding the direction of our life when we allow it to. That you turn it over again to an experience. All right.

In terms of creating community or building a workshop, then you are creating the energy and attraction to it. And you have to make an announcement to the world. You have to make an announcement to the world to let the world know you're there, to let the world know that you have some way for you to have a relationship with them, of being a counselor out in the world, or being an entrepreneur and opening your business and having products that you're selling and displaying to the world, you have to allow the world to know that you exist.

And that requires time. That actually requires time in in the physical world of repetition, of repetition, of behavior. Your repetition of behavior, of an action is what magnetize the results to it. That energy to respond to it.

I love this little story. This is a great little story. There was a rabbi that was retiring in his 80s. He gladly retired and had a conversation with God and said, "God, I am so happy that I got to be of service all these years as a rabbi. And my life has been extremely fulfilled. And the only thing I ask is that you let me win the lottery so that I can have a great retirement, not have to worry about my finances."

He mused to himself, I don't think that's too much to ask. After all my years of service and devotion. He didn't win the lottery so he went up to God and said, "God, you know, I'm going to have this conversation with you again. And I just think that it would be really nice if you let me win the lottery and and that, you know, you are powerful enough, you can design that. And I get just a little, you know, annuity and have comfortable income the rest of my life. After all, my years of devotion."

He didn't win again and once again he went to ask God to let him win. With a loud rumble in the heavens the voice of God says, "Rabbi, meet me halfway. Buy a ticket."

So meet yourself half way. Let the world know that you exist. And that's what you're doing. And so when you're doing it, trust that you're doing that correctly. Bless every expenditure that you have made in terms of your growth in your business and your personal development as that investment.

Imagine your good is compounded pressed down, running over and multiplied and returned back to you - and deny any expense as a loss. Refute the engrained programs that you have heard over and over and over again. Be careful how you spend your money. Spend your money wisely. Make good choices with your money? And refute all of the ideas that there isn't enough that you're going to run out, that you can't recreate it again. Don't tie yourself emotionally to those ideas. That means that you are operating out of fear. You're operating out of closed limitation.

It doesn't mean to be wild and unrealistic about your investment in yourself. You know, you do what is comfortable for you in the moment. What you can see is your potential of your return on your investment, of your energy and effort. But bless it when you are seeing it go out. Bless and know that that investment in you is what you are using to publicize yourself to the world with your energy and effort to be returned and pressed down and multiplied a hundredfold. Every good that you put in the universe is yours is guaranteed. We've had that conversation about; there's no such thing as an injustice in the universe and there's no such thing as the loss in the universe. It is an energetic expression that you've already put out into the world, that you've already made in, a way that you sent out to others. That is in your bank of good, that's in your bank of funds, that is there waiting for you to receive them.

And if you're not receiving them yet, that simply means that you're still running some old programs of lack and repelling your good, that you're still running programs that say, well, others can have it, but I can't or others are smarter than me and can do it. And you're comparing yourself to others out there and you're saying that somehow I simply still don't know how to do this, but more truthfully is that you're not in a greater expansion of yourself. You're in a limited debt oriented thought forms.

Again, if you remember the teaching that we've talked about, when you're building your bank account and you've told the truth about your money, you know what your expenses are, you know what your bills are, and then you simply put them aside and you start focusing on increasing your income; that you imagine three times your debt as income to cover all of your expenses, three times your income is coming in. I don't know how. I only know that three times my income is arriving in my bank account now.

And as you go up into that greater capacity to make your command, I don't know how. I only know three times my income is coming in and I don't know how I already know that it is now. You don't know how. You don't have an idea how. But when you're commanding that it does happen, then you're open to receiving the information and the idea that will arrive that will explain it to you how you can do it. And then you take your action steps to enact that.

And then you take action on it. And that's how you increase your capacity for your money. Or as some individuals have discovered, after taking the course, they start getting annuities and inheritances that mysteriously were blocked from them for years. And you've opened yourself to be able to receive that now. And it showed up. Is there any, you know, coincidence that these inheritances are showing up after commanding for your wealth when it never happened years before? What happened? What happened is that shift within the individual, that shift in consciousness, within the individual of being able to say, I can receive this good.

I don't know how I can have this great financial good, I only know I do so now and I am fulfilled. I don't know how I see that income coming into me every month. I only know I do now and I am fulfilled.

Wait for the new game plan to show up of new ideas of how that happens. And more people knocking on your door. I love Sharon's story that after The One Command having people call up to register to be her distributor. And Deb in Colorado, during The One Command course, having people she hadn't been able to register in eight or nine months all of a sudden register within a week.

So what shifted? It was instituted then because she shifted, because she went into that greater capacity within her and focused on that greater flow within her and looked at trusting in that greatness of who you are, not in your beta brain mind of, you know, your organized thinking, mind of limited thinking mind. But going up there and playing in the delight of the moment, of who you are in that energy field of your consciousness of what it is that is waiting for you in your good. So it can be done by your command.

What is your dream? What is your purpose? What is it that inspires you? What is your nature? And how can you be fulfilled within your nature? Often we're looking for somebody outside of us to recognize our nature and say, "Oh, I see you. I know you. I hear you. I get you."

When you recognize, within yourself, a coming into this greatness within you, of recognizing you, of recognizing that you have just amazing things that no one else has. And, you know, I've heard people say this in motivational speaking and in motivational seminars and in church. But this is a different kind energy to it in that it's actually saying, "If I did have this real value within me, what is it?"

What is this real value that I have of who I am in my own nature, not what your value is in terms of how you would show up in the world for other people to observe or other people to say they like you or they don't like you. But how would your own nature be that you value? What are the things about you that are true, truly of you? Perhaps some of you are very exuberant. I'm a very exuberant person, and so I value that in my nature. You know that I've got a lot of passion about what I do. And some people are extremely deep, like my friend Joyce, who writes inspirational writings. I mean she's very, very deep, like deep waters. And so her nature has wonderful undercurrents. And that's her nature

What is your nature? some people are very joyful and very just playful and that's your nature. And so that's like saying, well, what in you can you respect right now? What in you can you respect right now, what in you can you like right now? That's uniquely you. Just ask you that question. And tell me when you all got something that you can think about positively.

What is that like when you're looking and actually going in and looking for something within yourself that you respect and like?

I think it's a little bit uncomfortable at first because depending on how you were raised. I sharing at the seminar that I used to be playful, but, it was never really acceptable. I was always made to be, serious or on task. That sort of program is kind of hard to rewind right at the beginning.

Because that's tied into being loved and approved of by that tribe who told you that. So it is a little difficult, isn't it? But your nature is kind of squashed. Definitely. Absolutely. And your essential nature is squashed. And even in very loving households, it is oftentimes squashed because the people are very loving, but they still have expectations.

Rather than - I made this point, I said that I don't think that any parent would say to their child, "Gosh, you know, you're really chaotic and messy and isn't that darling. Just look at who you are. You're so cute". And then you go on to say, "Gosh, you're so peaceful and pleasant. I really appreciate that about you and I love your playfulness."

So we have to do it for ourselves now. And the homework assignment for your life is to enjoy our own nature. And in conjunction with enjoying our own nature to go into that wonderment of that great place within you, through the theta brain wave of of that greater capacity of who you are as well. How many want to do a little footwork on that?

Give me some of the ideas that would limit you to connect into that greater capacity with your own nature.

Fear.

Ok. And how does that look?

As far as what has been acceptable in the past to what is acceptable now? Kathryn said that I have this huge playfulness piece waiting to emerge. But I'm almost afraid of what that's going to look like because will it be accepted? So I'm afraid of being myself. I'm afraid that I'll be lacking acceptance or I'll be persecuted or be rejected or be criticized if I am seriously playful.

Did you get really serious about your playfulness? Really dedicated to it.

Let's do the command with that. Go ahead and ground. And then just feel the energy coming back from the Earth to come back up into your body. Take a nice deep breath. Expand 360 degrees. Move your consciousness up through the top of your head. Go on up into the theta state. And mentally follow the words.

I don't know how.

I am playful and accomplish great things.

And enjoy myself. I only know I am now. And I am fulfilled.

And expand that into a greater idea. Just go into that greater capacity within you to receive knowledge and information of that experience. That you that has that knowledge for you in that greater portion of your consciousness.

And then bring that down, come back down.

Come back down into your mind, your body, and then just unwind and release all of the old DNA strands of that criticism of your joyfulness and your playfulness, just unwind all those pictures and images and all those words and thoughts that were against your nature. And rewind, rewind. With this integration of playfulness and accomplishing your work, joyful in doing your tasks. Fun while you're being serious in the world.

And blending those and allowing those to rewind and rewind and rewind. I mean, go ahead, open your eyes and come into the room.

Thanks for joining us on the show. As we reveal your own true power of your rich mine, your success is assured to take off beyond the field of your imagination, Visit, www.Asara.com for free gifts, tips, articles and a model of prosperity that inspires leads and excites. You're a success. Get your gifts now.